A Popular New Game.

By this game alone a company may be driven to bed an hour earlier than usual, and the comfort of the families may be wrecked at the lowest possible figure. Directions for playing the new intellectual game of poets and painters: Each person being provided with a sheet of paper and pencil, which the owner will never see again, the dealer makes a nonsensior' instruction of country gentlemen. Ex-

"There was an old man of Toronto, Here's his table and chair,

But where is he, where, This invisible man of Toronto?"

When the dealer has composed a gem of this kind he does not show it, but illustrates it by a drawing. This he circulates among the company, and each of them has to make a nonsense verse on the in-cident illustrated by the sketch. The worst you draw the better. The dealer then repeats the true original rhyme, and the others are read aloud by the persons in the company least skilled in decipher-ing handwriting. The reading is sure to be the source of much merriment. TELEGRAPHIC TIDINGS.

Result of the Conference.

LONDON, Oct. 30,-The result of the conference between Lord Salisbury and American Minister Phelps regarding the Sackville letter is made public to-day.

Phelps informed Salisbury that the president regarded with marked surprise and dissatisfaction the conduct of Lord Sackville in replying categorically to a series of suggestions and inquiries couched in language quite improper for the British Envoy to entertain. Phelps further said that the American government left the matter of Sackville's recall or withdrawal in the hands of the English ministry. In reply Lord Salisbury said that he deplored the indiscretion of the British Envoy and expressed strongly the regret of her majesty's government that so untoward an incident should have arisen in the MONTREAL, Oct. 30 .- Several diplomatic relations of the two

Twelve Men Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.-Information received here regarding the loss of the Makah near Tillamook is somewhat unsatisfactory to shipmen. The vessel was first reported as a schooner, but it is said she is one of the largest barkentines that ever left port. The barkentine Makah, with fair weather, should have been near Honolulu by this time. Lorentz. Foard is of the opinion that the vessel was capsized in mid ocean, and drifted into Tillamook. She had twelve men on board-Capt. Larsen, two mates, the cook and eight men before the mast, all of whom are given up as lost. The barkentine was valued at $40,000 and was insured for $15,000. The cargo is thought to have been fully insured.
